John practices business and commercial law focused primarily on the needs of the construction industry. John has significant litigation and transactional experience and is uniquely qualified to advise businesses on a wide range of matters before and after disputes arise.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

John began his career at a general litigation firm in Salt Lake City. Since 2010, John has been an attorney at Fetzer Simonsen Booth & Jenkins. John represents companies and individuals in construction litigation, commercial litigation and transactions, real estate matters, real property title disputes, business formation and compliance, and estate planning. During law school, John served as a judicial extern to the Honorable Robert D. Durham of the Oregon Supreme Court.

EDUCATION

John is a graduate of the University of Oregon School of Law and the University of Utah. While at the University of Oregon School of Law, John served as an Associate Editor of the Oregon Review of International Law. John received The Orlando John and Marian H. Hollis Scholarship and Dean's Scholarship.

PUBLICATIONS AND PRESENTATIONS

John regularly presents to groups on topics related to construction law. Recently, John has presented seminars related to construction contract negotiations, mechanic's liens, surety bonds, and other matters to groups ranging from licensed contractors, construction attorneys, members of the Associated General Contractors, and emerging construction companies.

HONORS AND RECOGNITIONS

John is an officer in the Construction Law Section of the Utah State Bar and served as Chairman 2013. During law school, John received an award for his pro bono activities.
